

NiRo MR-It-Takes-Two

What you had to say, was barely to endure And not at all what I was hoping to be All these sad words, went right to my heart It still hurts that you were giving us all You needed freedom and your love was gone Nothing kept you back, you left our home So now I try to live my life on my own Someday I will but for now I still miss Your tender kiss and it takes two Break it out, and it takes two Just me and you Breaking it out, without any doubt When I want to talk, you walk away And I refuse to get out of your way Did you lose your heart to someone else? I won't confess but this is too hard to stand You needed freedom and your love was gone I try to live my life on my own Someday I will but for now I still miss Your tender kiss and it takes two Just me and you To work it out, and it takes two Just me and you To work it out, without any doubt You needed freedom and your love was gone Nothing kept you back, you left our home So now I try to live my life on my own Someday I will but for now I still work it out And it takes two, just me and you Working it out, without any doubt Thanks for watching!