

NiRo PK-Love-And-Money

Now I see the light, the switch came on to my delight, love is blind and for a while it had me chasing shadows. Things I couldn't see shrouded in mystery, it's now illuminating all around my feet. And now I feel like I can leap up and pull the sky down.

Lost in a world where love becomes greed for all. Yet money keeps you young, you're pretty dumb and you look blind. How much does it cost to begin to get what you want? Tell me now, if I had lost it, lost it all, would you stick around or would you be gone? On another dream, kept in abandonship, no need to stick around.

This mess is going down, far as I can tell. And I've seen it very well, love will only go, only go when money dwells. Lost in a world where love becomes greed for all.

Yet money keeps you young, it's a crazy easy life. When you're pretty dumb and you look blind. Baby here I am, get it on so you can take it all.

Don't look now, you're here in the jail. I'm stuck in my pain mode. You can't get out, this ain't my time.
