Remember the day you called me to say That you'd make someone who would change in your life In an unexpected moment, the beginning was so hard But you never gave up, and the reason was love You told me that I'd find a wall Now I know it's here As if the ocean meets the sea You told me that I'd find a wall Now I know it's here Finally I know what I do now Day after day we're finding your way And somehow you worked it out You never asked why, and you gave it a try Your love was so strong, and your story could begin You told me that I'd find a wall Now I know it's here As if the ocean meets the sea You told me that I'd find a wall Now I know it's here As if the ocean meets the sea Finally I know what I do now As if the ocean meets the sea You told me that I'd find a wall Now I know it's here As if the ocean meets the sea Finally I know what I do now
