

NiRo UW-Best-Friend

There is a time, I can't reach you. You may get to the end. You're on the worst, and you don't expect me to just look fine, even late at night.

You will tell me when I'm breathing down your neck, and you're honest with me. Even when our bodies touch, we both make a fuss. I've got nothing much left but what you say.

There were times I wouldn't talk to you, you meant to me. That had you been the last one in this world. You know most of my men had a good life.

You make people turn around when you crack a witty joke. All that's grown, and you're back alone, is a sign to see you're my best friend. You know most of my men had a good life.

You make people turn around when you crack a witty joke. You know most of my men had a good life. You make people turn around when you crack a witty joke.

There were times I wouldn't talk to you, you meant to me. That had you been the last one in this world. There is heartache in your tongue, I don't read.

Hear me out to the end. You get the words, and you don't listen. They don't justify that you're my best friend.

You're my best friend. Yes, you are.