

NiRo JB-Sorrows

This moment came too early. There wasn't much to say. It broke my heart and teared me down.

I will never be the same. I will never feel the same. This moment's full of sorrows.

This moment's full of joy. Those days when you just ask yourself, how can you ever be the same? There's no way you will be the same. So I look out at this background.

I look up to the stars. And all that I can think of is me with a broken heart. I never thought this moment.

I never thought this year. Would end up full of sorrows as we disappear. This moment came too early.

Cut my faith in life. The only way to get through this is looking up and shining bright. She will be my guiding light.

So I look out at this background. I look up to the stars. And all that I can think of is me with a broken heart.

I never thought this moment. I never thought this year. Would end up full of sorrows as we disappear.

So I look out at this background. I look up to the stars. And all that I can see now is me with a broken heart.

Is me with a broken heart. Woah. Woah.

Woah. Woah. So I look out at this background.

I look up to the stars. And all that I can see now is me with a broken heart. I never thought this moment.

I never thought this year. Would end up full of sorrows as we disappear. So I look out at this background.

I look up to the stars. And all that I can see now is you lighting up the dark.