

NiRo MG-We-Wait

The star I was following crashed into the ground. I look for you everyday but you just aren't found. I've thought of me so many times, but now you've made it clear You're not coming back this time, my star has disappeared We are always awaiting, a nightmare can be woken Can't be anticipating, another word's unspoken There's no way for my heart, you're waiting here half awake I can't see us in white and black, without your love just fade away I wanna see you crying, so that I could feel I'm not the only one dying, this pain is real I fell your hair on Christmas, shared with you my life Our world just falls apart, but you take it in your stride It's time to close the door, and put the past to sleep It's so hard to carry on, when you don't walk with me We are always awaiting, a nightmare can be woken Can't be anticipating, another word's unspoken There's no way for my heart, you're waiting here half awake I can't see us in white and black, without your love just fade away So now the disappointment fades, can't believe that it's too late Love don't make me feel, like a donker anymore Love don't make me have to, leave the past and close the door I'll hold you in one minute, never let you go Hold you in the winter, kiss you in the snow We are always awaiting, a nightmare can be woken Can't be anticipating, another word's unspoken There's no way for my heart, you're waiting here half awake I can't see us in white and black Love don't make me feel, we are always awaiting Like a donker, I'm waiting here half awake Love don't make me feel, can't see us in white and black Without your love just fade away
