

NiRo UW-When-I-Close-My-Eyes

Take my courage from you and everything that you do. You're my guiding hand. You taught me how to be strong and that your love is wrong.

I know you understand that I mean what I say. And whatever we planned, it just turned out this way. But I could close my eyes and see your face and hear your voice calling my name.

There in my mind, when I close my eyes, take away the pain and wash away the blood. Here in my heart, I know you're there in my heart once again. I've got a book about you and all the things that you do.

It would come alive and everything that you give, you give me reason to live. I know you understand that I mean what I say. And whatever we planned, it just turned out this way.

But I could close my eyes and see your face and hear your voice calling my name. There in my mind, when I close my eyes, take away the pain and wash away the blood. Here in my heart, I know you're there in my heart once again.

Once again, my heart and head are on the wash away the pain. The bluest skies turn to grey. So time takes a hold of my heart and I just live, live for the day.

When I close my eyes, take away the pain and wash away the blood. In my heart, oh you wash away, oh you wash away the pain. Oh, I know you're there in my heart again.

There in my mind, when I close my eyes.