

NiRo-UW-Waiting

There was someone, someone who said, my love, always hoping, searching for pureness. There was someone, someone who said, my love, always hoping, searching for pureness. There is a pain that hurts deep within my mind.

They say that love means more than everything. God only knows where my heart belongs. I'm way, far away from the darkness, where the light shines so heavily, reaching out for that someone, someone.

I am hoping and searching for the light. Oh, love means more than everything. God only knows where my heart belongs.

I don't see another one. I'm still alone without anyone near by my side. They say that love means more than everything.

God only knows where my heart belongs. I don't see another one. I'm still alone without anyone near by my side.