

NiRo MR-Different-Colours

There are people, they can see the shine around my eyes. There are people, they can see the sick and soul I hide. There are people, where I always act my life in front of them.

There are people, where I never show what I really feel. Different faces, different bodies, different colors. Different faces, different bodies, different colors.

Look into my eyes and you will see the difference between me and me. There are times when the movies are closed and then there are moments the curtains fall down and I see that I can't be open to the ones surrounding me. No more playing cause I can show who I really am.

Different faces, different bodies, different colors. Different faces, different bodies, different colors. Look into my eyes and you will see the difference between me and me.

Different faces, different bodies, different colors. Different faces, different bodies, different colors. Look into my eyes and you will see the difference between me and me.

Different faces, different bodies, different colors. Different faces, different bodies, different colors. Look into my eyes and you will see the difference between me and me.

The difference between me and me.